No Lorimer at the Banquet.

BY LEO.

Senator Lorimer, the junior senator from Illinois, was not allowed to eat with Roosevelt at the late banquet given in honor of the ex-president. And for a good reason, the ex-president declined going if the Senator was to be there. And so the Club barred out Lorimer. There was nothing else to do. How would it look to have a Roosevelt banquet without the ex-president? It would never do; better bar out half the club members; anyhow, far better shut out Lorimer.

What ailed Lorimer? Why would not Roosevelt eat with him? Well, the Senator has been accused of paying a lot of money for votes in the Illinois legislature to make him U. S. Senator from Illinois. And the accusation seems to be based on pretty good evidence. Anyhow, Roosevelt had become convinced that Lorimer had used his money to corrupt voters—a great offense. And hence Roosevelt refused to eat with a man who had bought legislators. What fellowship hath light with darkness? Can a Roosevelt eat with a briber? Out with him!

This reminds us of the Washington banquet of some years ago. Roosevelt was then president. He had invited many prominent men to a feast, among them Senator Tillman of South Carolina. Before the time of the banquet arrived the South Carolina senator assaulted the senator from Indiana, thereby creating a sensation. Whereupon President Roosevelt recalled the invitation of Senator Tillman, thereby shutting him out of the banquet. He drew the line on eating with a ruffianly senator who had tried to choke a brother senator on the floor of the Senate chamber.

Our Theodore is somewhat choicy in his companions at the table. He may be forced to eat with some bad people, but when it comes to notorious transgressors he declines. This is all right. It is a premium on good behavior. It is setting a mark of ignominy on glaring offenses in public life. It is in harmony with Roosevelt's preaching of righteousness. It would be inconsistent to condone crimes in public life after so much preaching about moral rectitude. Oh, no, Roosevelt could not consistently eat with an assaulter or a briber.

No doubt some will blame him for his exclusiveness, but there is good backing for it. St. Paul wrote to his converts at Corinth, "If any man that is named a brother be a fornicator, or covetous, or an idolater, or a railer, a drunkard, or an extortioner, with such a one no not to eat." He wanted no condoning of such crookedness.

Theodore Roosevelt acted precisely on that ground. Lorimer had been guilty, as the ex-president fully believed, of an unpardonable political offense, and to eat with him at a public banquet would be condoning the offense.

But they say that a few days later on at Cincinnati he affiliated socially with the great boss, George B. Cox. Well, there is nothing in that. Mr. Cox is a private citizen of blameless conduct, as far as known to the public. He is only accused of being a great boss in Hamilton county. What of Bryan? And is not Roosevelt himself a good deal of a boss? There is nothing morally criminal in being a boss. Therefore Roosevelt could very well receive socially the noted George B. Cox without rendering any offense.

Eating with Lorimer would be different. He is believed to be guilty of bribing his way to the Senate of the United States—a crime to be despised and reprobated. Oh, no, Theodore Roosevelt could not eat with such a sinner, thereby condoning his crookedness.

Obituary.

Chalmers Richard Barnhart, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Barnhart, was born June 19, 1910, and after a short pilgrimage of two months and twelve days departed this life September 1, 1910.

After all had been done within the power of human aid, death snatched this little one from us. "The Lord giveth and the Lord taketh away." As a gardener goes into his garden and plucks a lily, he plucks it because he loves it; so God has taken this little infant, untainted by the sins of this present world, into His everlasting arms because He loved it—the great evidence of His love being the provision He has made for the redemption of the children. Sweetly at rest are those who die in infancy. Such is the Christian faith, as drawn from the Holy Scriptures in the express teachings of Christ. Of such is the Kingdom of Heaven.

The parents beautifully recognized the sovereignty of God over their possessions in consecrating their child to the Lord by the ordinance of Christian baptism, which ordinance was administered on Sunday night, August 28, by the writer of these lines.

Chalmers Richard is gone and he shall not return to us, but we, by conforming our lives to God's will, may go to him and enjoy with him the felicities of that home, eternal in the heavens.

Funeral services were conducted at the house, on East Fifth street, at two o'clock Saturday afternoon by George D. Eastes of the Evangelical church. Interment in Greenville cemetery.

Sow Wheat a Little Late this Fall.

A little more Hessian fly than usual has been found scattered over the state this season and since we have had no general outbreak of this pest for some years and its parasites may therefore be presumed to be somewhat scarce, it will be best for Ohio farmers to sow a trifle late rather than early this fall. The normal date for sowing in northern Ohio is from the 15th to the 22nd of September, for central Ohio a week or ten days later, and for southern Ohio the last few days in September, or a little better, during the first two weeks of October. By the normal date we mean the date which will produce the largest yield, providing that no insect pests overturn the natural expectation. The normal date for sowing is determined, not by the entomologist, but by the agronomist, and rests upon the average results of sowing grain upon any given date through a long period of years. Only occasionally is it advisable for the entomologist to advise that there be a departure from seeding at the normal time. There is generally no danger, even from Hessian fly, if sowing does not precede the normal date, and at present we think it hardly necessary to suggest any further departure from the normal custom than to say that if departed from at all, this fall, the seeding should be in the direction of a week to ten days later than usual, rather than that much earlier. The dry weather will doubtless operate to destroy many of the pupae or "flaxseeds" of the Hessian fly by dessication and in those sections where the drouth has been severe and long continued there is probably no need for special apprehension.

We have become satisfied that no calculable advantage is gained against the wheat joint worm by departing from the normal date, either in the direction of early or late sowing. The degree of infestation will depend upon the stage of development reached by the grain at the time the eggs are laid by the joint-worm fly in spring. Sometimes the early sown grain proves best, and again it is the late which proves most exempt. On the average it will be best to sow at the normal time and having given proper attention to preparation of the seed bed and to fertilizing, abide the result. Stiff, heavy-strawed varieties will stand the attacks of both Hessian fly and joint worm better than small, weak-strawed varieties. In some neighborhoods where joint worm is exceptionally severe it may be advisable to substitute rye for wheat.

Saved A Soldier's Life

Facing death from shot and shell in the civil war was more agreeable to J. A. Stone, of Kemp, Tex., than facing it from what doctors said was consumption. "I contracted a stubborn cold," he writes, "that developed a cough; that stuck to me in spite of all remedies for years. My weight ran down to 130 pounds. Then I began to use Dr. King's New Discovery, which completely cured me. I now weigh 178 pounds." ## Gettysburg.

I. B. Miller is rustivating in Canada, to be gone for about two weeks.

Rev. J. Winkler of Carrollton filed our Presbyterian pulpit, morning and evening, yesterday.

Rev. A. E. Day ended the conference year here yesterday by preaching an excellent sermon to a large audience on the subject, "More serving the physical than the spiritual being of man."

Our Willing Workers Bible class of the M. E. Sunday school were well patronized Saturday night in their festival venture, and realized a good help for their treasury.

D. Moul and family of Pleasant Hill spent Saturday night and Sunday among us in a pleasant way.

Our schools will begin next Monday, but very probable in other buildings than the school buildings, the enlargement of which is not yet completed and from present progress will not be until then, though Contractor Zimmerman is rushing the work to the extent of his ability. We have the consolation, however, when done we will have very excellent and suitable academic buildings and an educational outfit equal to any found anywhere in districts of its kind and surroundings.

On Thursday, the 22nd inst., the eighteenth annual convention of the Darke County Woman's Christian Temperance Union will be held in our Methodist church. This will be an event of no ordinary moment and will receive the consideration it merits. Sessions will be held forenoon and afternoon and will be interesting, judging from the program issued.

The State Fair had its quota of patrons from here last week. The Troy and Sidney fairs will be held this week and these will not fail to secure attendants from here.

Why He Was Late. Pat was late again, and the foreman was dealing out the usual reprimands. "Nine o'clock," he said. "What do you mean by coming at this time of the day? I wonder a man of your means troubles about coming at all. Now, then, what's your excuse?" Pat considered for a moment, and at last the excuse came. "Sure, sor," he said, "I dreamed last night I were at a football match which ended in a draw." "What about that?" interrupted the foreman. "Well, sor, the referee ordered an extra half hour to be played, and, be-gorra, I only stopped to see the finish."—San Francisco Chronicle.

Treat Seed Wheat For Smut.

To treat seed wheat for stinking smut of kernels before sowing the grain seems very necessary in 1910. Reports received at the Ohio Experiment Station indicate that the smut is present in nearly every county of Ohio in this year's wheat crop.

This smut is caused by the spores of the stinking smut fungus which adhere to otherwise healthy seed-grain. These smut spores may come from smutted kernels broken open, or from bags or mills. There seems to be differences in the tendency or susceptibility of different varieties to smut, but the real problem is to sow disinfected seed, or seed free from smut. It is not likely that seed wheat free from smut can be easily purchased in Ohio at this time.

To treat seed wheat the method of sprinkling it with a solution of formaldehyde (formalin) in water (1 pint or pound of formaldehyde to 40 gallons of water) is recommended and is successful. The formaldehyde is on sale at drug stores.

Sprinkle piles of grain on tight floor or canvas with this solution by means of sprinkler, meanwhile shoveling the grain over so that every kernel is moistened—it will require three-fourths gallon to one gallon of solution per bushel of grain. When grain is so treated, allow to lie in pile 2 to 3 hours or over night: then spread to dry. After treating, handle the grain in disinfected bag, mills, and drills.

To disinfect fanning mills or drills, wash or sprinkle all parts well with the same, or stronger formaldehyde solution. To disinfect bags for handling treated seed grain, soak them over night in same solution used to treat seed wheat.

For treating seed wheat in large quantities in tight elevators, etc., it is possible to use a gaseous formaldehyde method which is described in the Spray Calendar, Bulletin No. 199. The sprinkling method above given is also described in the same Bulletin, which will be sent you upon application to, Botanist, Experiment Station, Wooster, Ohio.
